About

You can start an ad hoc recording directly from the Lecture Capture application. You can record a camera, screen, or multiple inputs.

If you select one input (camera or screen), Lecture Capture creates a single video. If you use the default settings or select more than one device, Lecture Capture creates a video file for each device.

To display multiple streams at the same time, you need an updated Kaltura dual-screen player. For more information about viewing options, see Viewing Rich Media in the Kaltura Player.

Before you start

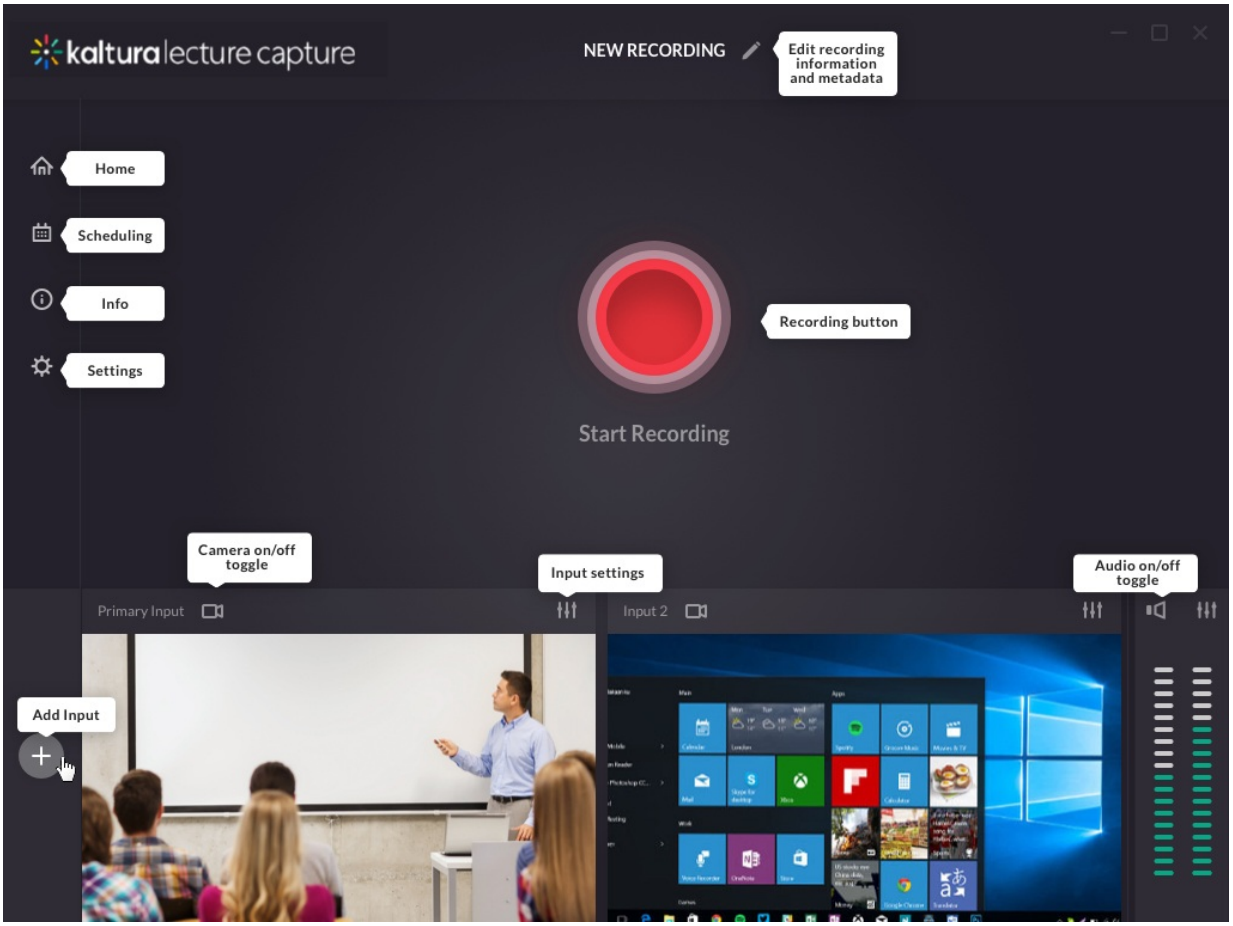

Install Lecture Capture before you start recording. See Install Lecture Capture.

If your administrator configured authentication for Lecture Capture, see Sign in to Lecture Capture.

Configure the inputs you want to record:

- To record only your screen or camera, click the video icon for the input you don't want to record.
- To record multiple inputs, click the plus icon and configure the additional inputs. See Select recording inputs.
