If enabled by your administrator, you also have the ability to add a time-based comment.

For example, if you want to add a comment to the video at the 6 minutes and 22 second mark, play the video to that point, then click the Add comment at XX:XX check box. Alternatively, you may also "timestamp" your comment by inserting [XX:XX] anywhere in the Add a Comment box.

The screenshot shows a 'Comments' section with a text input field containing the text 'This is an important part'. Below the input field is a checkbox labeled 'Add comment at 06:22' which is checked. To the right of the checkbox is a blue 'Add' button.

3. Click the Add button. Your comment now displays below the Comments section. If you created a time-based comment, you and other users will see that time as a link that, once clicked, will take them to that specific time in the media.

The screenshot shows the 'Comments' section with an empty 'Add a Comment' text input field. Below the input field is a checkbox labeled 'Add comment at 06:22' which is checked. To the right of the checkbox is a blue 'Add' button. Below the 'Add' button, a comment is displayed in a light gray box. The comment is attributed to 'John Doe' and is timestamped 'A moment ago'. The text of the comment is 'This is an important part (06:22)'. Below the comment are two links: 'Reply' and 'Delete'.
