 This article is designated for all users.

About

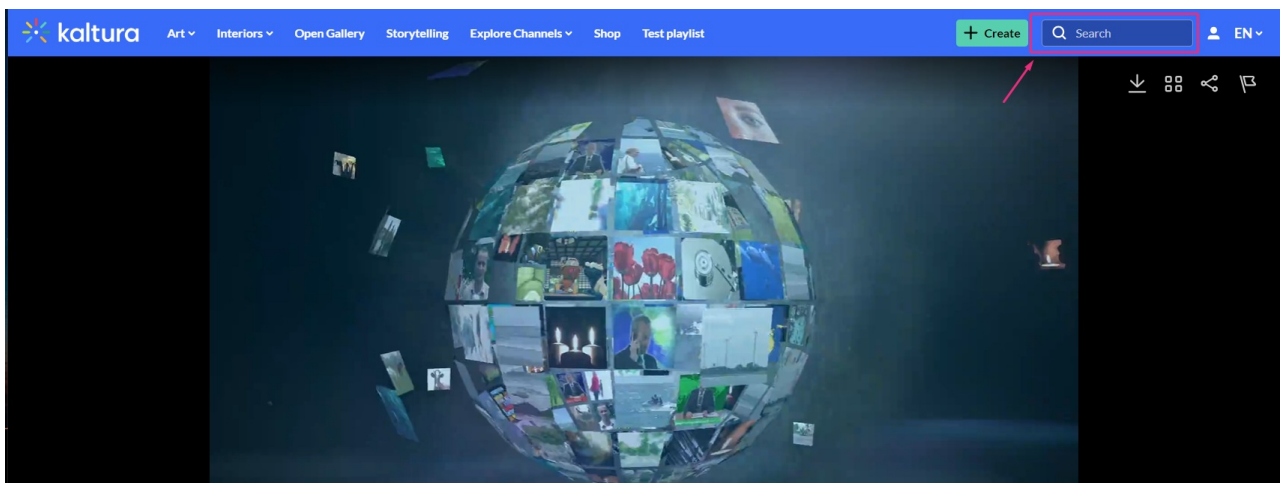

Welcome to our global search page! Easily find what you're looking for with accurate results and refine your search using intuitive filters. Our search function is designed to help you explore content efficiently, and uncover relevant information across the site.

The global search page is set up by your system administrator through the Search module and the globalsearch feature in the Theming module.

How to perform a search

The global search page can be reached from the top right of your video portal navigation bar by either entering a search term and pressing enter or by clicking in the search field then pressing Enter on your keyboard.

You can also go directly to the global search page using the following URL:

https://{your_KMS_URL}/search?

- OCR (Optical Character Recognition - detects and extracts text from on-screen elements such as slides, images, etc.)
- Comments

*OCR is optimized for Latin-based characters, numbers, and common symbols (e.g., @, #, $, %). While it may detect some non-Latin scripts, support is limited:

- Chinese, Japanese, Korean: Works best with printed text in standard fonts.

- Arabic, Hindi, and others: Accuracy may vary and is not explicitly supported. To enable OCR, your admin must set up REACH on your account.

The title and description (1) of the media are displayed next to the thumbnail.

On the thumbnail, a small icon indicates what type of media it is. If no icon is present, it's a video.

Found in (2) - Keywords located in metadata fields other than the title or description appear below the media description. Hover over them to view details. The available metadata fields include:

- Tags - Displays keywords found in the media's tags.

- Details - Custom fields beyond standard metadata.
- Quiz - Results from quiz questions and answers.
- Chapters, Slides, Comments, Captions - Key content elements where keywords are detected.

- OCR - Text extracted from visual elements, such as slide titles, on-screen annotations, or other visible text in the media.

Scheduled (3) is displayed for Live, VOD, Kaltura Meetings, Simulive, and Webcast entries.

Each metadata type is clickable. For example, click the media title or thumbnail to go to the media page, or click '2 Chapters' to view up to five keyword locations (click again to close). For time-based metadata, a number shows the keyword's position on the timeline; clicking it starts the video at that point.

Explore

If more than five keywords are found, the Explore link appears. Click it to open a sidebar showing all keyword locations and additional entry details, like Owner, Creation Date, and Views.

Click the Go to Media button to navigate directly to the content.

Click X Close at the top of the side bar to collapse the results.

Channel and gallery results

Channel and gallery results are displayed below the first three media results (only on the first page). If there are no channel or gallery results, you won't see those components on the page.

Unlisted and Private media will not appear in channel searches. By definition, these media entries remain hidden from search visibility.

Your administrator can choose whether to display or hide the channels / gallery results on the global search page in the Search module.
