About

You can restream your live session to social media platforms that support RTMP streaming, such as Facebook, YouTube, LinkedIn, or other broadcast services via the Share & Embed tab in the session settings panel.

Restreaming sends your live session feed from Kaltura to one or more external destinations at the same time, helping you reach additional audiences outside your Kaltura event site.

Restreaming is available only for future sessions. Before restreaming, make sure that:

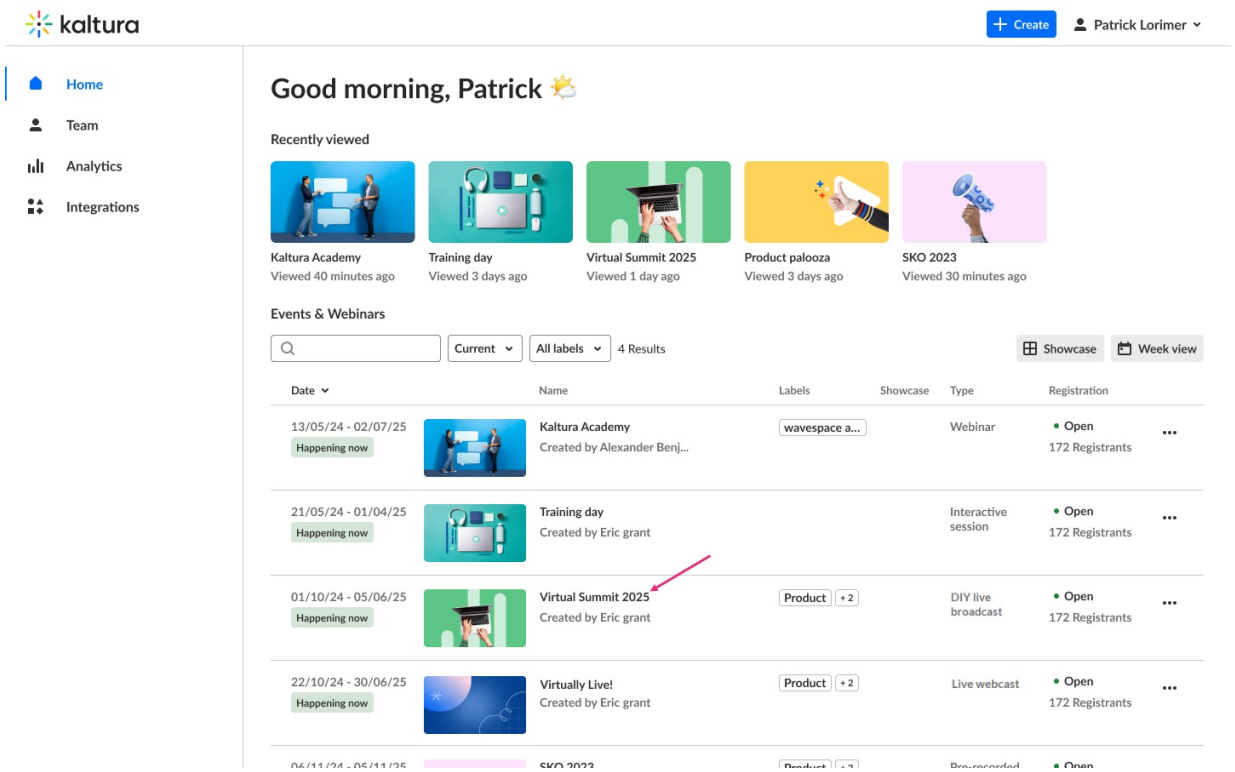

- Your session is scheduled and has not started yet.
- The social media platform you plan to use provides an RTMP stream URL and Stream key.
- You have the necessary permissions on the external platform to create a live stream.

Notes

- Viewers who watch your session through a restream are anonymous in analytics because they are not required to register.
- External platforms do not support enrichment features such as dual screen or cue points.
- You can add multiple social streams if you want to restream to several platforms at once.
- RTMP behavior varies by platform; always verify your Stream URL and Stream key on the destination service before starting the broadcast.
