Configure components for homepages in Content Hubs

Content updated: 05/09/2026

This article is designated for administrators.

About

Components are the ready-made sections that make up a homepage, such as the main page of your site or the main page of an event or campaign. They can show media, text, banners, playlists, registration flows, interactive content, custom HTML, a single video, or a Conversational Agent.

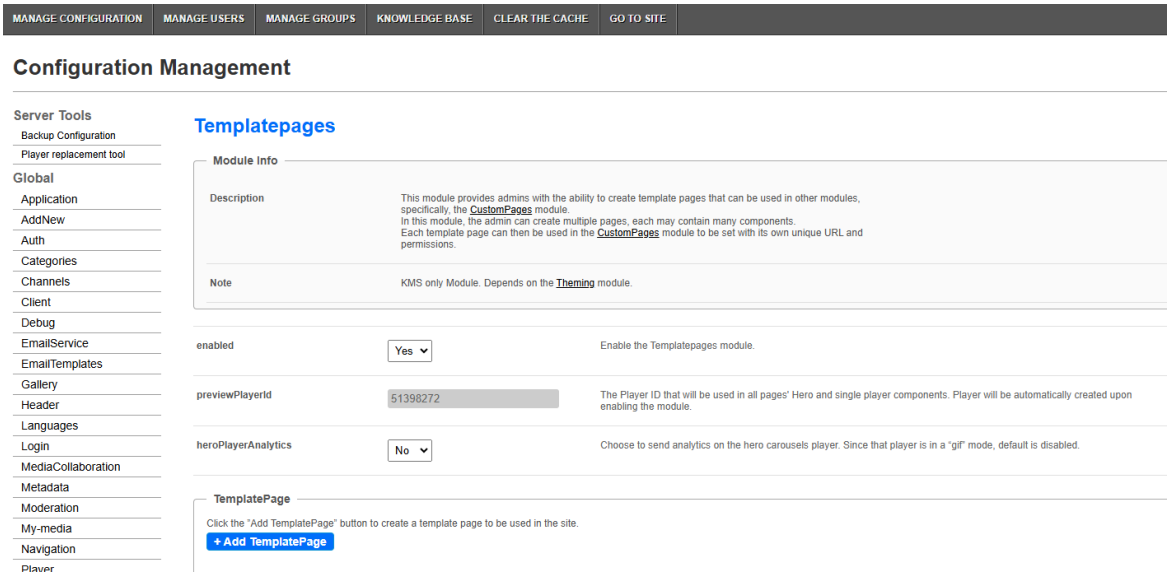

You add and configure components in the components section of the Templatepages module.

Applies only to Content Hubs. Requires Theming to be enabled on your site.

Access component settings

1. Go to your Configuration Management console, locate the Templatepages module in the left panel, then select it. You can also navigate directly using a link:
   `https://{your_site_url}/admin/config/tab/templatepages`

   The Templatepages page opens.

2. Select Edit next to an existing page, or select +Add TemplatePage to create a new one.

For more information about creating and publishing a page, see Templatepages module.

3. In the TemplatePage section, scroll down to the components section, and then select +Add "components".

4. In the `type` dropdown, select the component type you want, and then configure it as described in the articles listed in the following table.

Shared component settings

All component types share these fields, unless its article says otherwise:

- order - Enter a number for the component's position on the page. Lower numbers appear higher on the page. This field is required. We recommend leaving gaps between the numbers, such as `10`, `20`, and `30`, so you can add components in between later.

- allowedGroups - Select the user groups that can see the component. Leave empty to show the component to all users.

You can add more than one component of the same type to a page. Adding a lot of components can make the page load more slowly.

Component types

The following component types are available. Each one is explained in the article listed next to it.
