About

Lecture Capture automatically uses the highest available audio quality by default. You can select a different microphone and adjust the audio settings before you start recording.

Configure audio settings

1. In the audio section, click the audio settings icon.
2. Select the input source (microphone) you want to use.
3. Select the input type. Lecture Capture automatically selects the optimal audio settings based on the input type.
4. Select On to capture system audio, or Off to disable the audio input.

5. Click Back to return to the main recording window.
